

EO DC Names Ted Rose President

Rockville, MD (September 19, 2007) - The DC Chapter of the Entrepreneurs Organization (EO DC) announced that Ted Rose has been named president for the upcoming year. Mr. Rose, who founded the accounting outsourcing firm, Rose Financial Services, has been a member of the EO since 2001.

“After a thorough exploration to identify well-qualified candidates, I truly believe we found the best person for the job,” said Jim Brown, past president. “Ted is highly regarded and his vision for the next 12 months will take EO DC to the next level.”

In addition to serving on the EO Executive Board for the past two years, Mr. Rose is on the Board of Directors of the University of Maryland Robert H. Smith School of Business Alumni Chapter and was confirmed by the Montgomery County Council to serve on the Executive Committee of the Montgomery County Workforce Investment Board. He was also voted one of The Best CPAs in the DC Metro area in 2004, 2005, and 2006 by the MACPA community & SMARTCEO magazine.

Ted Rose adds “I’m looking forward to working with the extremely talented and successful entrepreneurs on the EO DC Board. We are building the premier community of entrepreneurs in DC. EO DC is an organization that brings together entrepreneurs in an environment that enriches their business and personal lives. We are looking for entrepreneurs that are actively growing their businesses. This year the Board has decided to cap membership at 200 entrepreneurs and increase the involvement of our members’ families. We’re strengthening our business forums and promoting our international universities.”
